Pemex Commits to Third Year of Intensive Training Series with Fugro-Jason

Workshop to focus on seismic inversion and reservoir characterization

Feb. 5, 2009—Houston, Texas – Fugro-Jason today announced that Pemex has committed to two five-month training sessions, each with approximately 6 students for a total of 12. This is the third year that Pemex has committed to extended training on the Fugro-Jason product set. Six people attended the five-month training in 2007 and twelve attended the same course in 2008. All sessions are held at Fugro-Jason offices in Houston. The students bring their own data set for training and present results when they return to their offices.

“For the third consecutive year Pemex selects Fugro-Jason to train their top geoscientist in all phases of Seismic Inversion and Quantitative Interpretation,” said Carlos Spindola, Fugro-Jason Country Manager for Mexico. “Pemex continues to show great leadership in training their personnel on best practices, and has seen drilling success and reservoir performance increase using Fugro-Jason reservoir characterization workflows.”

About Fugro-Jason

Fugro-Jason is dedicated to delivering innovative products and services to help our clients identify and produce hydrocarbon deposits by integrating information from the various geoscience disciplines. Fugro-Jason applications make it possible to integrate geological, geophysical, geostatistical, petrophysical and rock physics information into a single consistent model of the earth. The application of Fugro-Jason’s technology, either through use of the software or through our consultancy services, substantially improves returns on E&P investments by adding invaluable reservoir model information that reduces the risks, costs and cycle-times associated with exploration, appraisal and field development and production.

Fugro-Jason is a unit of Fugro NV. Fugro was founded in 1962, and is listed on Euronext NV, Amsterdam, the Netherlands. Fugro has more than 13,500 staff and a permanent presence in over 50 countries.
